CHILDREN

A living history lesson in wonder and merriment

There is no mistaking the magic that begins as a child bounds through the stone castle entrance to the Festival. Immediately struck by the sights and sounds of a time and place gone by, young minds begin to light up in the fantasy that surrounds them.

The Festival's theatrical re-creation of a country fair some 500 years ago allows children the opportunity to immerse themselves in a living history lesson. As they mingle with legendary heroes and our talented town folks, they will learn about the customs and culture of the past. Interactive performances involve children from the audience, and where else can a child view the color, pageantry and excitement of a live Joust? Centuries-old art forms, including glassblowing, pottery throwing, and weaving, are created right before their eyes.

Each Festival day features special activities for the young ones. At the Petting Farm, children have the opportunity to visit animals from the corners of the Known World, including lambs, goats, calves, roosters, ducks, rabbits and more. Games of skill, such as archery, catapult, Jacob's ladder, and a two-story maze with a sliding board challenge the body and mind.

All become forever memorable when experienced first hand. It is truly a day from which childhood dreams and memories are made!
